

They collide as they pass; I dip my toes in the water as they curl; the water stagnates as it disperses; as I say nothing I speak; when I fall I rise. And when I sway,

I split in two -- counter balancing my counter position -- one side is stuck while the other moves continuously.

-Taiga U